CHERRYARTS AWARDED GRANT FOR MOBILE ART EDUCATION

The Vera and Joseph Dresner Foundation approves expansion and implementation funds for youth and families

DENVER, CO – October 24, 2018: CherryArts announces a generous grant awarded by the Vera and Joseph Dresner Foundation for expansion and implementation of mobile art education for youth and families. The Vera and Joseph Dresner Foundation mission is dedicated to transforming lives in profoundly positive ways through grants focused on health, youth and animal welfare. CherryArts graciously accepted the grant and will allocate the funds for the CherryArts mobile art education programs.

“On behalf of the CherryArts Board of Directors, staff and students throughout Colorado, we are grateful for the funds supporting our mobile art education efforts. CherryArts has designed its mobile outreach programs to nurture future generations of art supporters, while exposing young minds to the many social and individual benefits of experiencing and creating art. This is especially important in an environment where budget cuts are forcing schools to either scale back or completely eliminate their arts education programs,” states Tara Brickell, executive director / CEO of CherryArts.

CherryArts gives back to the community through year-round arts education, making access to the arts possible for all and serves over 20,000 students annually with the Mobile Art Gallery, Mobile ArtCart: Printmaking Edition, the Janus Henderson Investors Student Art Buying Program, the Alliance Project and on-site programs, such as Creation Station, at each Festival.

Since the first Cherry Creek Arts Festival in 1991, the CherryArts 501c3 nonprofit mission provides access to arts experiences and supports art education via the Cherry Creek Arts Festival, Stanley Arts Festival and statewide mobile art education programs.
